P. R. MILNES

The opinions expressed in this column are the personal views of the writer and do not necessarily reflect those of the management. In fact, many times they do not.

WHAT IS IT:

Are we thoughtless, indifferent, ungrateful, or is it that we just do not know any better?

It was surprising and disappointing when the Armistice parade marched up Macdonald avenue and back again to Memorial hall, what a great number of people failed to pay the respect customarily accorded to the flag by uncovering their heads.

Some people, it seems must be stirred very deep emotionally before they will give outward expression to their love of country, symbolized by the flag. Such obsequiousness is no man but is a tribute of respect to the banner of freedom under whose aegis we have valiantly marched forward from thirteen colonies to 48 states constituting the most powerful nation in the world. Many of the men and women in that parade had their patriotism tested in the fires of battle and made sacrifices for the clockwork which cannot be measured in money values. It was therefore incumbent on the spectators to pay due respect to the men and the flag under which they marched.

FLAG MANNERS

As a lesson in flag manners to the many whose hats seemed to be glued to, and an irremovable part of their heads on Armistice Day, the following poem, "The Flag Goes By," written by Henry (Continued on page 8)

To Study Cost Of Water For Agriculture

CONCORD, Nov. 12.—A committee will investigate the cost of water to agricultural interests of the county under the Contra Costa canal and upon the report made by the five will hinge the decision whether the farmers desire to join with the Salt Water Barrier Association in forming a water district in this county.

This in brief was the result of a largely attended and enthusiastic mass meeting held in the grammar school here tonight at which Federal and State officials were in attendance, in addition to the officers of the association and its attorney, Thomas M. Carlson of Richmond. There was a full, frank and free discussion of the issues involved. The meeting had been called at the request of the Concord Chamber of Commerce and the Farm Bureau in order to ascertain just what are the plans of the government in connection with the projected canal in this county, what water from it will cost the farmers (Continued on page 8)

Local Lawyer Scores Victory In Appeal Case

A notable legal victory was scored yesterday by Attorney T. H. DeLap in securing a reversal of a judgment, on appeal, against the estate of Constantine Lepori in the sum of $16,500.

Prior to his death Lepori transferred the 16 1/2 shares he owned of the capital stock of 250 shares of the First National Bank of Bay Point. Several months after Lepori's death the bank failed and later the government sued the estate for an assessment of $100 a share, claiming that Lepori was aware of the shaky condition of the financial institution at the time the transfer was made.

The case was tried in the U. S. District Court and judgment rendered in favor of the government and against the estate. A motion for a new trial was immediately made by DeLap and it was argued in October. An appeal was taken from the judgment direct to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which yesterday handed down its decision, reversing that of the District Court.

But two bids for the gunning of the piles on wharf No. 1 were opened by the Council at its meeting last evening. The tenders were laid over for one week for consideration.

The bidders were the Cement Gunite Construction company, whose offer was $11,633, and that of Edwin Anderson, $10,118.

The work to be done consists of removing reinforced steel, wire fabric and replacing it with new, and the gunning the piles with cement.

Edwin Anderson was the successful bidder on the previous work at the wharf.

RAILROAD CROSSING
Councilman Otto Ludwig of the street committee reported that the committee had been in touch with the Southern Pacific regarding the bad condition of the crossings at Lucas and Pullman avenue, and cutting boulevard, and work of placing them in proper condition was now progressing.

City Engineer E. A. Hoffman, supplemented the remarks of Ludwig by saying that the improvement of Lucas avenue crossing was completed, men were at work on the Pullman crossing, and that the crossing on the industrial spur tracks in the Stege district had been rebuilt.

PASSENGERS UNAWARE OF DYING MAN

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Nov. 12.—UP—Fighting a failing heart in mid-air, Captain Donald Buckman, 34-year-old army pilot, raced 100 miles against death tonight to bring to safety three passengers in a transport plane.

Captain Buckman, air service supply officer stationed at March Field, Riverside, Calif., died a few minutes after he landed his plane.

HEART ATTACK
Physicians said death was due to an attack of heart disease, which occurred while he was in the air.

Captain Buckman, stocky, heavy set and his face twisted with pain, stepped out of the plane and collapsed in the arms of airfield attendants.

"I'm hurt," he gasped. Attendants carried him into the airport hangar, where he died.

SUDDEN ATTACK
Passengers in the plane, which took off from March Field this afternoon, apparently were not aware the flyer had been stricken until he brought the plane down.

Buckman said he had been seized with a pain in the region of his heart when he was over the Mojave desert, about half the distance from March Field.

His body was taken back to Riverside by army airplane.

AILMENT IS PUZZLE
MARCH FIELD, Riverside, Nov. 12.—UP—Captain Donald Buckman, army flyer, who died at Bakersfield today, was not known to be suffering from heart disease, army physicians said.

He had been in army air service seven years, having graduated with the air corps class of 1928. He was stationed here three years, and survived by a widow. He formerly lived in Portland, Ore.

An air corps board of inquiry will hold an investigation.

Weather Man Is Held For Downs On Goal Line
Demonstrating a remarkable ability to "take it," the weather man in San Francisco yesterday morning reiterated his prediction that we would have rain Tuesday night and Wednesday. As this is being written the area is drier than a government report.

For a short time yesterday afternoon it appeared as if the weather man was correct in his prediction and that worthy official actually hummed and whistled as he worked. Clouds filled the skies and there was a smell of rain in the air.

Patrol Change Strictly Up To Merchants

If the merchants of the city want a change in the night patrol service which they are now sustaining they have it in their power to make it.

That was the sentiment expressed by the members of the Council last evening when a letter was read from C. E. Harris, president of the Richmond Merchants' Association, asking that the night patrol be placed under the supervision of the police department.

Quite an extended discussion followed, and the opinion was held that the merchants hired the night patrol and paid for it, and a change in it was not up to the council.

Councilman Geo. F. Imbach strikes me this a private enterprise, and the council has nothing to do with it. The merchants pay the expense of this service, and if they want a change they should make it. (Continued on page 8)

Business Meeting Is Held Here By High School Board

Only routine business matters occupied the attention of members of the Richmond Union high school board of trustees yesterday.

The board held a brief discussion of plans for streets to serve the tract of land which will be purchased in El Cerrito for an El Cerrito junior high school, and named Superintendent Helms to attend a meeting of the El Cerrito city council.

New Citizens To Take Oath, Flag Pledge

MARTINEZ, Nov. 12. A new and patriotic custom will be instituted in the Superior Court here tomorrow morning by Judge Thomas D. Johnston when the first class of 29 out of 87 applicants for citizenship appears for examination.

For the first time in the history of the county the applicants at a part of the proceedings will salute the flag and take an oath of allegiance. Frank Wilson, the bailiff in Judge Johnston's court will administer the pledge. It will follow closely the wording of the flag pledge. The session will be held in Judge Bray's courtroom, being able to accommodate a larger crowd. He and Judge Johnston will sit on the bench.

Another highlight featuring the examination will be 10 minutes' talk by prominent attorneys of the county on the duties of citizenship.

Attorney T. H. DeLap of Richmond will be the speaker at the Wednesday session. Attorney Tom Carlson of Richmond at the Thursday session and Mayor Hugh Donovan of Pittsburg, also an attorney, at the Friday session.

Oakley School Razed By Fire; Children Saved

MARTINEZ, Nov. 12.—UP—Thirty-eight kindergarten and first grade pupils in the Oakley school here were in marching order in their classroom today when passers-by noticed the teacher, Miss Katherine McGintie, that the building was on fire.

The children fled out in orderly fashion. The building was destroyed. The school figured in a school district dispute several weeks ago when parents of 20 children kept them out of class in protest against the consolidation of the Oakley and Iron House schools.

CAPITAL IS FLEEING TO TOKIO BANKS

Copyright 1935 by United Press. TIENTSIN, China, (Wednesday) Nov. 12.—UP—Indications increased today that a vast area of North China may be declared an anti-imperialist state, closely linked with Japan and Manchukuo, within the next month.

Strongest proof that Chinese believe the separatist movement is to be consummated was a frantic flight of Chinese capital to Japanese banks.

TRANSFER OF CHINESE DOLLARS into Japanese yen was reaching the proportions of a stampede.

The Bank of China (Korea), one of the big Japanese banking institutions, controlled by the Tokyo government, reported that Chinese deposits in its Tientsin branch had increased more than 600 per cent.

Buying of Bank of Chosen notes has been particularly heavy during the past week. The value of these notes will not be affected by the action of the Japanese government in nationalizing silver.

Safe Taken From San Pablo P. O. Found Near Giant

A safe stolen from the San Pablo postoffice in a robbery on the morning of October 19, was found hidden in a haystack near Giant by Manuel Mello, chief of the San Pablo fire department, according to sheriff's officers yesterday.

The safe, a home-made affair of concrete, had been broken open and letters were strewn about. A book of money order blanks and eight cents in pennies, were found in the safe.

The safe was taken to Martinez for study by deputies, who are cooperating with department of justice agents and postal inspectors who are hunting the burglars.

El Cerrito police last night were faced with another mystery in the robbery of the Frank Lohrer home on Tulare avenue on Monday night.

Two suitcases of clothing stolen from the home, were found cradled in the bed or a creek across the street from the home. Donald and Richard O'Connor, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lester O'Connor of 6023 Barrett avenue, made the discovery while playing.

Planes Sent To Bring Aid To Shipwreck

ABOARD U. S. S. BULMER, Wednesday, Nov. 13 UP—Fifty-two hysterical, water-soaked survivors of a five day battle for life on a rock off San Bernardino Island, where the British steamer Silver Hazel split in two were safely aboard two U. S. destroyers today.

Picked up from bobbing, crudely constructed rafts that tossed crazily in the wind lashed currents of the straits, the survivors were found to be suffering severely from lack of food and exposure.

There were two known dead: Mrs. Neil Williams, Pasadena, Calif., a passenger; Bernard Charles McPherson, 18, Gloucester, England, an apprentice.

Missing were Captain H. A. Lennard and one unidentified person.

Two Negroes Are Lynched By Mob For Girl Murder

COLUMBUS, Tex., Nov. 12. UP—Two Negro boys who confessed attacking and murdering a white girl were lynched by a mob near here tonight.

The victims were Benny Mitchell and Ernest Collins, both 16-year-olds. They allegedly confessed that they killed Miss Geraldine Kollman, 19, after they were ordered to leave her father's orchard on October 17.

The Negroes were being returned from Houston, where they were taken for safekeeping after their arrest.

As the car in which the officers in charge of them were driving came onto the Colorado river bridge at Altair other machines suddenly blocked its path.

A mob estimated at 700 men overpowered the officers and took the Negroes. The Negroes were taken to a point north of Columbus about a mile from the Kollman girl's home. Ropes were placed around their necks. After a brief conversation, the ropes were thrown over a limb of a live-oak tree and the Negroes were jerked into the air.

TRUCKS ARE CAPTURED BY AFRIC ARMY

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 12.—UP—A government communique today said a lightly armed Ethiopian force of Anele attacked ferociously an Italian tank detachment, which shot down many at short range.

After a bloody battle, two unarmed trucks were captured and six officers and many natives were killed. Others fled.

On the northern front the Ethiopian Commander Guebre Heywo, attacked a stronger Italian detachment, killed the leader, and dispersed the troops. Eight Ethiopians were killed.

REBELS IN CLASH
LONDON, Nov. 12.—UP—The Exchange Telegraph Agency's correspondent with the Italian northern armies reported tonight that 300 Ethiopians were killed in a desperate fight between Dejazmatch Nasibu's cavalry and the Sultan of Jabulo's forces, who deserted to the Italians.

The Ethiopians reportedly were attempting to prevent junction of the Sultan's forces with Italians from Mussa Ali on the eastern front.

Mrs. Martin Gets 1 To 6 Year Jolt In State Prison

MARTINEZ, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Alice Martin, 38, colored, of Richmond, today was sentenced to serve a term of from one to six years in the Tehachapi women's prison by Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnston after she pleaded guilty to a felony charge of possession of narcotics.

The woman was also charged with sale of narcotics but after a guilty plea to the possession charge was filed on her behalf by her attorney, H. L. Richardson of Oakland, Deputy District Attorney Rex L. Boyer asked dismissal of the second charge.

She was charged with having possession of a preparation of cocaine at her home in Richmond October 11, 1935.

Richardson asked for leniency on behalf of his client, asking the court to give her a county jail sentence. He told Judge Johnston his client had told him a man she knew as a narcotic addict came to her home and left the package with her, asking her to keep it for him. She said that later he returned and asked her for the package, insisting upon paying her for keeping it. Her arrest followed.

Judge Johnston said: "The offense, in my judgment, is one of the most serious on the statutes, and I don't think this is a county jail offense."

He said he was not in sympathy with anyone who would further a "vicious habit" and pointed to the fact that Mrs. Martin knew it was narcotics she was keeping.

KAMM, LIKELY SUCCESSOR TO GABBY STREET

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Willie Kamm, former Cleveland third baseman and San Francisco Seal star, was mentioned today as the likely successor to Gabby Street as the Mission club's pitcher.

Kamm was reported negotiating with Joseph P. Howard, president of the Mission club, for a contract as pitcher.

Street's resignation came as a surprise today, as he had been expected to remain as the Mission pitcher at least through the 1936 season.

Howard was also surprised when informed that Street had signed with the St. Paul club.

"Although I knew he was negotiating with St. Paul, I had confidently expected him to return here for his 1936 season," Howard said. "There were many rumors that Street was dissatisfied during the past season, so they were at rest one month before the season closed when Street had actually announced he would leave the club with next year."

Kamm, who left the Cleveland club last year after a dispute with Walter Johnson, is now the Cleveland pitcher on the west coast.

Under Street, the Mission made their best showing in the second half of the 1935 campaign, when they finished as runners-up to the San Francisco Seals.

"We didn't have a wage, in mind," a spokesman for the Daily said, "in the first place."

OLD PEOPLE find way to keep breath wholesome

Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath). No wonder others consider them a nuisance.

But now Science has found that the regular use of Listerine will often overcome offensive mouth odors due to the fermentation of tiny line of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plate surfaces.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Halts fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and then counteracts the odors themselves.

Try using Listerine every two or three days. See how much more wholesome it leaves your mouth. How it sweetens your breath. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

CUTTING BLVD PAVING TYPE IS SPECIFIED

On motion of Councilman J. R. Beck the Council of El Cerrito at its meeting last night designated the asphaltic concrete type of pavement for the improvement of Cutting boulevard.

Peres & Gatto were the low bidders on asphaltic concrete with a bid of $4,340.03 and the Independent Construction was low on Clorox with a bid of $10 less.

A copy of the resolution will be sent the Division of Highways so it can concur in the council's action.

Awarding of the bid will probably be made to Peres & Gatto at the meeting next Monday night if the State officials concur in the action of the council.

TAX MAP WANTED

Request of the Division of Highways for the Council to submit another map of the city showing streets to be improved with gas taxes was referred to Street Commissioner W. F. Huber.

AGREEMENT REFERRED

A communication from City Engineer H. D. Chapman asking the city to enter into an agreement for the maintenance and erection of signs and signals on San Pablo avenue with the Division of Highways was referred to Street Commissioner W. F. Huber and City Attorney T. H. Delap for one week.

BUS TIME CHANGED

Councilman Louis Navellier reported that the starting time of the first bus from El Cerrito to Berkeley and Oakland is now 5:48 A. M. instead of 6:00 A. M.

TURNPIKE COMPLETED

Street Commissioner W. F. Huber reported that a turnpike had been constructed in Gladys avenue and the street was now open between Everett and Navellier Sts.

CITY HALL TAX SMALL

Mayor Hans M. Nissen informed the Council that if the bond election for the construction of a new city hall is carried it will only cost the property owners 40 cents per $1,000 assessment for a period of ten years.

Under the agreement with the P. W. A. the city will receive a grant of over $10,000 and the city will provide $17,000 by the bond election, to be held Saturday.

Girl Fights To Regain Custody Of Her Daughter

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—UP—Eyes streaked with tears and her voice hoarse from shouting at lawyers, pretty Pelen Balzington La Cour, New Orleans dress model, struggled with tangled contradictions today as she sought to regain a nine-month-old daughter that she "gave up" to a children's society last April.

Mrs. LaCour at that time told authorities at the home the child was illegitimate and not the daughter of Dr. E. V. LaCour of New Orleans her estranged husband.

The baby, now in possession of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Trayler of Los Angeles is sought on a habeas corpus action.

EL CERRITO NEWS

MAY WIDEN AND EXTEND FAIRMONT

The State Highway Commission may take a hand in widening Fairmont avenue and extending it across San Pablo avenue to join the bay bridge highway.

The plan at present under contemplation is to widen Lassen and run Fairmont across where the Rust garage now stands, which will make but a very slight curve in Fairmont at San Pablo. Fairmont will then be extended on the east to connect with Arlington and will carry a heavy line of traffic from Berkeley Park, El Cerrito and Kensington Park straight through to the Oakland-San Francisco bridge by the most direct route.

If this plan is carried out El Cerrito will be in a very favorable position as to location in the bay communities.

INJURED GIRL ASKS DOCTORS TO KILL HER

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12.—UP—A frail, 31-year-old woman pleaded from her sickbed tonight that a doctor take her life in the name of mercy.

For 719 "unfortunate" days since an automobile accident at Mrs. Anna Becker's home in a house in the house had laid her on the death bed, she pleaded for the doctor to take her life.

Today she pleaded to the Erie County Medical Association for "the appointment of a physician to bring me a merciful death." Her plea fell on deaf ears. However, for the society and it could not comply with the request.

"A competent physician could certainly kill me with less pain than I endure in an hour," the bedridden, pain-racked woman said. "Now I am not only in agony but am a burden to my friends. No matter what comes afterward it will be much worse than what I am now."

Attended only by a physician and her husband, Mrs. Becker suffers convulsions of pain on an average of every two days and each time lapses into long periods of unconsciousness.

"Her problem is one for her personal physician," Samuel A. Matthiel, executive secretary of the society said. "As far as taking her life to end her misery, that is out of the question. I guess about the only thing we can do is to extend our sympathies."

Miss Becker's plight, revealed by the Buffalo Times, went back to October 21, 1932, when she took a taxi cab home. As the cab turned into the street an unlighted car sped directly toward them. Miss Becker screamed once, then came a crash and her mending days of pain had begun.

All her teeth were knocked out and her ears have remained in such condition that she cannot catch words. Every drop of water or liquid food strikes through her body painfully. Her legs were injured and she stands on them any length of time they swell. Internal injuries added severe complications.

She was awarded a $500,000 judgment against an insurance company. The company would not liquidate and Miss Becker has been unable to collect, either from the company or the defendants.

Tax On Motion Picture Firms Is Held Invalid

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 12.—UP—Washington's business, tax, and gross revenues of motion picture distributing agencies was ruled unconstitutional today by the State Supreme Court.

The court upheld the constitution of the tax on the motion picture industry. The tax is a burden on interstate commerce and a violation of Federal statutes.

The opinion followed third arguments of the case before the Supreme Court. Six justices signed the majority opinion and three dissented.

State Tax Commissioner T. M. Jenner said an appeal would not be taken to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Governor Will Grant Reprieve To Two Slayers

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 12.—UP—Governor Frank F. Merriam today indicated he may grant a 90-day reprieve to Harry C. Brooke and William Tanner, scheduled to be hanged Friday for the torture-kidnaping of Henry Bodkin, Los Angeles attorney.

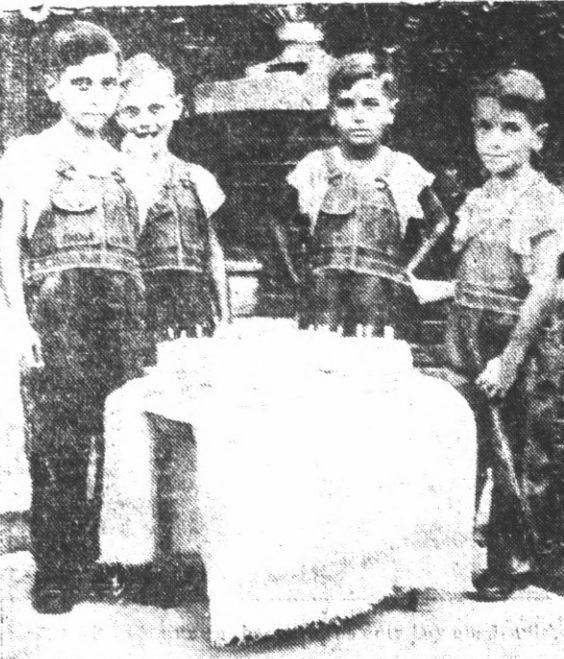

The stay of execution would give the governor time to consider pleas of the men for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment.

Various official bodies have recommended clemency for Tanner. Sources close to the governor said he believed it would be unfair to grant clemency to one of the convicted men and not the other.

Before expiration of the reprieve, if they are granted the governor is expected to determine either that both men shall die or that both shall receive life sentences.

STOCK MARKET IS WORRIED BY TRADE TREATY

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—UP—Caution controlled stock market operations today despite a continued flow of favorable business reports. These situations worried traders:

1—Uncertainty over what Canadian trade treaty terms may be, particularly as concerns alcohol imports.

2—French monetary situation with demand for devaluation increasing.

3—Italian attitude on economic loans.

4—American monetary and economic situation, demands growing for less government activity in business and some fears of further inflationary moves as soon as the new congress comes in.

No support came into the market as profit taking increased. Selling was not heavy but every division felt the influence and prices at the close were fractions to more than three points lower among leaders with more than 2,000,000 shares exchanged. Some individual situations stood out such as strength in Allegheny corporation issues, bonds and stocks, and weakness of American alcohol shares in view of the Canadian trade treaty plan.

Ordered To Pay Back Alimony

MARTINEZ, Nov. 12.—Fred J. Prosser, city clerk of El Cerrito must pay delinquent alimony to his divorced wife. The court edict today was cash on the judicial counter and $82.50 before December 2.

Prosser had been cited to appear this morning before Judge Bray but did not obey the summons. An adjournment was taken until 1 o'clock at which time the court said that until there was complete compliance with his orders he would not consider Prosser's petition for a reduction in alimony and custody of the minor child. The alimony when the divorce decree was entered was set at $85 a month.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12.—Tingling tunes of "The Thin Man" and musical masterpieces of "The Great Dictator" are featured in the new film shop.

And it's all because of the general impression that Americans are not appreciating the music, according to Irvin Talbot, musical director at Paramount.

"It has been more or less impossible to find a musical film that would appeal to the general public," Talbot said. "The new film shop is a direct result of this situation. It is a place where you can find the best of the best in musical films. It is a place where you can find the best of the best in musical films. NAZIS' MOVE AIDS LEAGUE'S SANCTION PLEA

BENJIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—The German government tonight laid out its plan to export to Italy the flying boat that is destined to inaugurate trans-Pacific airmail and passenger service.

The embargo list rescues closely the list of key products of the League of Nations, which refused to export to Italy the flying boat that is destined to inaugurate trans-Pacific airmail and passenger service.

Officials explained the decree was due entirely to the Nazis' internal economic situation. The flying boat will be sent to Italy by the German government.

Cargo Boycotts Are Discussed By Union Chiefs

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—UP—Support of the boycott of the International Longshoremen's Association against cargo from the Gulf of Mexico was being discussed behind closed doors today by Maritime Federation of the Pacific delegates from all west coast ports.

Union solidarity along all fronts was an objective of the meeting, F. M. Kelley, secretary, said.

Spokesmen for the unions said refusal of shipowners to amend existing working agreements with maritime crafts unions also would be discussed.

Unions represented included the longshoremen, radio operators, seamen, engineers, Alaska fishermen, International Brotherhood of Machinists and masters, mates and pilots.

More militant leaders are said to favor a program calling upon the maritime crafts unions to refuse to man ships carrying cargo from the Gulf of Mexico, where a strike has been in progress several weeks.

Longshoremen, in turn, would support the other unions in the event of a showdown with owners on the subject of amending working contracts.

Saturday is to be known in Berlin as "State Youth Day" when lessons on "National Socialist (Nazi) Ideology" will be given in the schools.

When Johnny Anthony turns up in the little town of Burnwood, no one knows just who he is or where he came from. Alma, daughter of Lawson Whitaker, one of the town's leading citizens, falls in love with him, but Johnny raises the secret of his past as a barrier between them. Alma's father wants her to marry Sig, Burnwood's local bank, but Alma rejects him. Her father suffers a nervous breakdown, and it is discovered that he is in financial difficulty. That Sig has been aiding him, but has now withdrawn his support. Alma's dominating Aunt Harriet Falken takes Alma and her father to the city, and summons Sig back from a trip with the intention of trying to force Alma to marry him in order to help her father.

CHAPTER XIV
"MORE ROUGE, MURPHY!"
Aunt Harriet issued royal commands, and stepped back to survey Alma. "Heavens, Alma! Anybody think you were going to a funeral, with that expression! Can't you act as if you had a little interest in things?"

Alma bit her lip and stared stonily into the tall cheval glass reflecting the strangely festive figure that must be she. The dress was new, it was soft, clinging, chiffon of a pale misty green. "You're perfectly lovely, Miss Alma!" Murphy exclaimed. "Alma, like a bride in that new gown!"

"My pearls, Murphy!" Aunt Harriet commanded and lifting the costly shimmering strand, she placed it around Alma's neck. "I please Aunt Harriet—I'd rather not wear them!" Alma protested.

"They look nice on you, child. Now stop fretting and try to get into the spirit of things a little!" "I'd rather be with Father," Alma protested childishly.

"Alma, cast her withering glance. "You can do him more good this way!" she pointed out grimly. They descended the stairs to the brilliantly lighted room below.

"You have time to go to the train to meet Sig," Aunt Harriet suggested. "It would please him and would be more hospitable than just to send the car and Banks."

"It isn't necessary," Alma objected faintly. "and besides, it would look as if I were now throwing myself at him after turning him down! You wouldn't, if you were in my place!"

"I'd remember that all this silly false pride isn't exactly helping your cause any!" Aunt Harriet said grimly. "Get your wrap and I'll go with you."

Alma went reluctantly upstairs again to get her wrap, and her aunt hurried into the dining room to see if everything was in readiness. Presently they were stepping blazed into the car.

"The florist's first," Aunt Harriet ordered Banks. "Those flowers they sent won't do at all. And if I trust them to send others, they'll get here by morning—perhaps!"

In a few minutes Sig was stepping down off the train. He came straight to the Falken limousine.

"Alma darling," he said eagerly. "This is so thoughtful of you!" He held both her hands tightly in his gloved ones. Alma's gaze faltered, flashed past Sig's smile, and met the look of scorn on Johnny's taut face as he stared intently at them.

Without waiting to watch them disappear, he turned abruptly and with a curious sag to his broad shoulders threaded his way through the crowd and disappeared.

"Alma," Caroline said earnestly grasping her friend's hand. "You know that I'm one of them, though, don't you? I'm rooting for you, every step!"

Alma could not speak over the tight little lump in her throat. But she smiled tremulously. "Everybody's been simply frantic for you, darling," Caroline went on. "but we felt you'd rather be left alone for a spell. If there's anything at all I can do, Alma, I'd feel so happy to lend a hand. Come and stay with me for a bit. After your Dad is better, we can talk things over."

"Will, Caroline," Alma promised unsteadily. "and you're a brick!"

"By the way," Caroline said, with a gamine grin. "what's happened to the golf wizard? Did you take him to him, or something? I never saw anybody else around such a collection of savage moods all on one pair of shoulders! Only this morning."

Prentiss out so viciously she burst into tears and threw her clubs at him, swearing she'd never play golf again as long as she lived. "Way, I'm with you, Mr. Anthony's temper?" Alma parried panic-stricken. "After all, he knows a number of girls!"

"And after all, we're old barriers in crime and out trying to kid you, Alma!" Caroline laughed. "Think I don't know her? I know my arithmetic, and one and one simply has to make two!" She grimaced ruefully as she saw Aunt Harriet approaching and whispered. "Here comes the duchess. I'll see you in jail, darling!"

Throwing a casual nod at Aunt Harriet, she walked over to her own little coupe, climbed in, and drove off.

"Now what," scolded Aunt Harriet, and then she turned to see what she was to do. "She's gone!"

"More chumchum schemes, I'll wager!"

"Nothing," Alma replied defensively. "She's just after Father, and told me to come to see her. Caroline's a peach."

"Humph!" was all Aunt Harriet said. The Travers family though aristocratic, was too poor to interest her.

WHEN Banks stopped the car at the depot and got out to inquire if the train was on time, Aunt Harriet's nerves were so bad she had to buy some candy and went off again leaving Alma alone in the car.

"Hello," said a man's voice suddenly, and then she found his eyes warm and friendly. "I took my life in my hands and dared to look at a queen once more! How have you been? And now Mr. Whitaker?"

"Johnny!" Alma's face flushed. "Johnny who didn't you phone or—or anything? I've missed you so!"

"I did out your aunt," Johnny pointed out gravely. "made it quite clear on each occasion that you were not permitted to come to the telephone to talk with common riffraff!" He shrugged. "Johnny she didn't dare!" Alma staved.

At that moment the train roared into the station. Aunt Harriet bore down on them accusingly. Johnny mumbled something and backed off.

"Alma darling," he said eagerly. "This is so thoughtful of you!" He held both her hands tightly in his gloved ones. Alma's gaze faltered, flashed past Sig's smile, and met the look of scorn on Johnny's taut face as he stared intently at them.

Without waiting to watch them disappear, he turned abruptly and with a curious sag to his broad shoulders threaded his way through the crowd and disappeared.

"Alma," Caroline said earnestly grasping her friend's hand. "You know that I'm one of them, though, don't you? I'm rooting for you, every step!"

Alma could not speak over the tight little lump in her throat. But she smiled tremulously. "Everybody's been simply frantic for you, darling," Caroline went on. "but we felt you'd rather be left alone for a spell. If there's anything at all I can do, Alma, I'd feel so happy to lend a hand. Come and stay with me for a bit. After your Dad is better, we can talk things over."

"Will, Caroline," Alma promised unsteadily. "and you're a brick!"

Fighting in Tropical Fastnesses Invites Toll From Diseases

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

FOR any of you young bloods who are feeling venturesome and think it would be a lark to get over to Africa and look in on the big fight that has been threatening there are some hints as to what will greet you, once you get there. Most of us know little of Ethiopia except that it is inhabited by a dark skinned race of fierce tribesmen.

Those who know the country say that the greatest ally of the Ethiopians is the rain, the swamps, and tropical diseases. The white man has always suffered terribly from tropical diseases, when ever they attempted anything in these countries.

True, America built the Panama Canal and made the Panama region safe for the white man.

But before they did that they sent a vast army of sanitary engineers to prepare the way and clean out the causes of these diseases. Italy cannot do that.

The natives of these countries are almost immune to these infections, principally because they or their ancestors have suffered countless attacks and thus became immune. The tropical diseases are mostly of the character that are carried by flies, fleas, mosquitoes, ticks, lice and contaminated water, milk and food supplies.

The Fever Type

They are of the type in which chills, fever, diarrhea, skin eruptions are common factors. These follow a long course and end in great prostration, so that they do destroy the patient they cause him to be an invalid for many months. Army authorities say the best way to win a war is not to kill, but to wound the enemy or make him sick.

A dead soldier is only one, a sick or wounded man requires one or two to care for him. The diseases caused by a wet, hot climate in the presence of unsanitary conditions are malarial and typhoid. There is malaria, to which many Italians may be more or less immune, but always subject to another attack. Also typhoid, against which most of the soldiers have been immunized.

Typhus, or camp or army fever, carried by the body louse, has and will, destroy the usefulness of a vast number of soldiers. The death rate in those attacked runs from fifty to seventy per cent.

It is a slow process with much suffering, which leads to bronchopneumonia and death or chronic invalidism.

Cholera is caused by contaminated water supplies and food. The patient is attacked suddenly, ever the prostration is great. If recovery takes place it is long, drawn out.

Yellow Fever Prospect

Yellow fever, which is carried by the mosquito, can be prevented by vaccination, but the supply of vaccine is so limited that the soldiers are probably not protected.

Dengue, or break-bone fever is also carried by the mosquito. The pain is terrific, commencing with severe pain behind the eye balls and intense headache, and later, unbearable backache. The death rate is small, but the suffering great.

Sleeping sickness carried by the tsetse fly is far different from the northern sleeping sickness, passes through various stages, fever, delirium, paralysis, and often death. Treatment early results in many recoveries, but they are incapacitated for a long time. The black plague, carried by rats and fleas, and many other debilitating diseases are rampant in this region.

These together with the heat, humidity, poor roads, poor communications will make the life of a soldier a terrible nightmare. It is stated that of the soldiers sent into Italian Somaliland forty-six thousand have already been invalidated home and in such condition they will never fight again.

Depression-Born Children

The depression-born five year olds are beginning to have their day. Since 1930 they've had bad breaks. For besides being born into the midst of a world in turmoil, they've lived the most impressionable years of their lives in depressing and unfavorable conditions.

But just as these youngsters start to school the tide is turning. They've had a bad time of it and have earned the opportunity which is to be presented to them through the nation's new recognition of youth and school children.

This is the first year for some time that the kindergarten has shown an increase. High school increases are, in large measure, due to the presidential program sponsoring student aid under the National Youth Administration. Under this program students on relief may receive $6 per month, the quota determined according to the number of relief as of May, 1935.

Guide to Charm

Brushes Play Large Part In Beauty Plans

By JACQUELINE HUNT

HOW many brushes do you have on your dressing table and in your bathroom? Why, I have a good hair brush," you say, "and let's see, there is a toothbrush, of course and a nail brush—" If your list stops there, you have not learned how big and useful the brush family has become, and how indispensable to beauty.

Today you may have a dozen brushes to help you keep your skin lovely, your hair healthy and silky, to make the daily bath a pleasure, to apply nail polish and make-up, for cleansing and stimulating eyelashes and brows, for removing excess powder and for keeping clothes and shoes immaculate.

Hair brushes are probably the oldest and most universally used. But modern hairbrushes differ much from those even of Grandmother's day. They are well constructed to last for years and to stand frequent scrubbing and sterilizing. The bristles are long, tough and resilient and cut unevenly to permit them to clear up as quickly as they penetrate through even a heavy growth of hair to the scalp.

A good hair brush is expensive, since only the best of materials are used in its manufacture; still you can get one famous make for as little as $2.50. This particular brush is narrow and lightweight, and the bristles are arranged so they wave in to clear up as quickly as they penetrate unusually well. It is now being brought out in gay colors and small sizes for children.

There are bath brushes by the dozen, and once you have used one you will never be without it. Not only is it pleasant to use and convenient for reaching inaccessible spots, but it keeps your back and shoulders unblemished and smooth.

A complexion brush is essential if you wish to keep the smoothness of your skin, or if there are blemishes that you are anxious to clear up as quickly as possible. Choose a complexion brush with firm, yet soft, bristles. Use with warm water and bland soap and work up a stiff lather, now with small rotary movements, just touch the surface of your skin, working upward from the base of your neck to jawline and up to your hairline.

Linger a bit around your nose and chin where dismally little blackheads like to come. Now rinse and rinse, pat dry and use the cream or tonic that your skin requires.

We cannot mention complexion brushes without telling you about the fat little round one that comes with a covered bowl of fine pure soap. The soap is made with a milk base and is grand for sensitive skin where they happen to be dry or oily. You can get the combination in a plain box or in a gay little silk traveling case with waterproof lining.

More about brushes and what you can do with them in tomorrow's column!

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Will you please tell me how I can clear up my skin? It has a reddish cast all the time. My skin is nice and smooth, but I would also like to have a clear complexion. Also is it proper to drink a glass or two of water before meals? Someone said that water would make one fat. I will be watching for an answer."

ANSWER: "Your high color may be due to over-active or under-active circulation or to a very sensitive skin that becomes red and chapped with every temperature change. Try to get a moderate amount of outdoor exercise each day, nine hours of sleep at night and a short nap or rest period during the day. Try to avoid rich or highly seasoned foods, stimulating drinks or cigarettes. Use a simple foundation preparation when you apply your make-up to protect your skin from the brisk autumn weather."

Water is not fattening. Some doctors think, however, that water taken with your meal encourages you to eat more than your body needs and for this reason it is best to drink your water after meals or a half hour or so before.

QUESTION: "I have several scars on my face that were caused by a case of acne several years ago. Is it possible to have these 'smoothed or to conceal them?'"

ANSWER: "You can best conceal the scars with a good tinted foundation cream. Try to improve the texture of your scalp by massaging with a good cream and using an astringent."

The Bustle Returns

The bustle dress appears in stiff black cloque silk taffeta. Small gold dots glimmer in the depths of the fabric that holds the figure in a new silhouette.

High Necklines, Bodices Headed For Big Success

By IRENE VAIL

New York—If you're not the type for the Boy Scout scarf you may be just the girl for the neck-line peckers and the softly draped one, with or without clips. You may be able to get away with the straight band, making a fence around your neck, opening in front usually. There are V-neck dresses, and those with cowl or square necklines, but the great majority of bodices serve as good chest protectors.

In talking with women I find that big sleeves are not very popular, which is too bad, since fashion seems determined to foist full sleeve trimming—if not the whole sleeve—on us. If not the whole sleeve—the effect is distinctly bulky. It's smarter than it sounds. Many cloth coats have fur sleeves, but MARY ROUFF made the discovery that pure, cloth sleeves were smart as smart could be in a seakskin coat, the shoulder seams of which were very low.

Frogs fasten a number of the best looking models, and not only the obviously military ones either. There is a good deal of braiding in circulation, with fur used, and a great many stunning fur turbans to be worn with either coats or fur-trimmed suits.

A reversible swaggar coat, one side fur the other cloth, is a practical coat for any woman to own. The winter ensemble consisting of a wool dress and coat of wool and fur, mostly fur, is a good choice. There are a good many belted coats, some fitted and more still on swaggar lines.

Tweed coats and suits still look best when topped by felt. Just as tweeds look best without fur, the exception being the so-called sports furs and nutria.

When casting about for a blouse to wear with your tweeds, have you considered the possibilities of fine flannel shirtings made in shirt styles, or do you prefer handkerchiefs or jersey velveteens? Among the best looking blouses for dresser purposes are the changeable taffetas.

QUESTION: "Please let me know whether it is correct to wear diamonds to a formal afternoon affair. I would like to look my best."

ANSWER: "No matter how elaborate an affair is, diamonds are not as a rule worn by well-bred people in the daytime. By diamonds, of course, is not meant a solitaire or a simple diamond pin but such a collection of diamond-studded jewelry as one associates with evening clothes—bracelets, brooches, necklaces, earrings, and rings. One may arrive decked out in all her diamonds, if she chooses, at an extremely ceremonious evening function, but even so a person of good taste would use discretion, wearing only what is becoming or appropriate, as distinguished from dressing up for show."

QUESTION: "In arranging individual salt and pepper on a table, where do they go?"

ANSWER: "They should be placed in the center of each cover, directly in front of the guest, just above the plate."

QUESTION: "I have both goblets and tumblers. May they be used interchangeably, a tumbler at one place, a goblet at the other and so on?"

ANSWER: "The only time when such an arrangement may have to be resorted to is when there is an insufficient number of one kind of glass to no round. However, don't use it for the sake of decoration alone. To be absolutely correct, save the goblet for formal service and use the tumbler for general, informal service."

Baked Fruits Provide New Food Thrills

By JUDITH WILSON

ALL OF US like fruit. It is attractive to look at, stimulating to the appetite, and beneficial to the health. We start the day with a glass of cool fruit juice, prunes, melon, sliced bananas and berries or other fruit in season.

For luncheon or dinner we may serve a fruit cup, a fruit salad or polished fresh fruit with crackers and cheese for dessert, but there is one way that most of us overlook as an accompaniment to the meat course.

You may serve the time-honored apple sauce with pork, and cranberries or tart jellies with your roast fowl, and lemon with fish, but here the matter ends. Where is your adventuresome spirit? Try other fruits, fresh and canned, with other meats, and see how truly good and unusual the combinations can be.

Sauced Bananas
Equally good with broiled chicken or small juicy steaks and fillets. Cut the bananas in halves lengthwise, dip them in flour and fry until light brown on both sides in butter. When you serve them, sprinkle with a few drops lemon juice.

Broiled Grapefruit
Cut in halves, scald the edges and loosen the sections, removing all of the membranes, seeds and centers. Sprinkle freely with brown sugar and broil until thoroughly hot and delicately browned. Serve with meat as an accompaniment or serve as an unusual dessert.

Spiced Prunes
Mix 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 3 cups water and a small stick of cinnamon. Boil about half an hour or until reduced one half in volume. Pour over 2 cups large prunes, that have been cooked for 15 minutes and drained. Cook in the spiced syrup for 20 minutes longer. Serve with roast pork or veal.

Baked Oranges
These may be prepared in quantity and sealed in sterilized jars until you want to use them. Slightly grate the skin of small whole oranges. Boil 30 minutes to make the skin tender. Cut a slice off the blossom end of each orange, remove the core and stuff with 1 teaspoon butter and 1 tablespoon sugar. Make a syrup from 2 parts water to 1 of sugar. Pour enough over the oranges to cover. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven from 1½ to 3 hours, depending on the desired color of the finished product. Long baking gives a dark colored fruit with a thick, rich syrup. The syrup cooks away, baste frequently. Use as a garnish with ham, fresh pork or the cold meat platter, stuff with cottage cheese as a salad or top with a marshmallow and brown as a dessert.

Sauced Pineapple
Golden brown rounds of pineapple are especially good with calves liver and bacon. Prepare the liver and bacon the usual way, then saute the pineapple rings (I like the unsweetened pineapple rings row available) in bacon drippings until light brown on both sides. Arrange the liver in the center of a hot platter, surround with the halves of pineapple and lay the strips of bacon over the top.

Cranberry-Orange Relish
Put 1 pound washed cranberries and 1 whole orange (seeded) through the fine knife of the food chopper. Mix with 2 cups sugar and let stand several hours before serving. Good with cold meats.

Surprise Party for the Woman Who Has No Money Invites Trouble

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

FRIENDS who mean well often have better intentions than judgment. Here is a case in point. It is an ideal example for testing out the infallibility of the Golden Rule.

"Dear Mrs. Martin: Do you agree with me, or am I wrong, about the following incident? A friend of mine who has many friends, but very little money, is about to occupy her home, which has been rented for ten years. Some of her friends want to give her a surprise party and shower."

All the arrangements have been made. So far so good. However, a friend made the suggestion that it be a commodity shower, food for the harder, so to speak. Now, I think it's a dreadful idea, and that our friend will be not only embarrassed, but hurt, for I happen to know she is very proud. I didn't say anything when the idea was suggested, but I think I shall—especially if you back me up. I know they mean well, but, well, it just seems all wrong."

The man is running towards the left, looking back over his shoulder with a determined expression. The crowd consists of several people, some of whom are reaching out towards him. The scene is set outdoors with some foliage visible in the background.
